Rain in a Bottle.

Engineering reports L. Errera as describing in Terre et Ciel a very simple method of producing rain, not of water, but of alcohol, and the winds which accompany its formation. A glass cylinder about 8 inches high and 4 inches in diameter is half filled with alcohol of 22 per cent, the cylinder being covered with an ordinary china saucer and slowly heated in a water bath, so that the whole becomes warm without beginning to boil. The vessel is then taken out of the bath and placed on a table, when vapors soon begin to condense on the saucer, clouds form and tiny regular drops fall down in vertical lines into the alcohol. The drops have an average diameter of forty or fifty millions of a millimeter, but vary in size, the rain continuing for half an hour. The upper part soon clears, and the condensation takes place some distance below the saucer. As one side of the cylinder will not rarely be a little colder than the other, ascending currents can often be noticed on the one side, descending on the other. If the warm part is cooled, the currents change direction.

Why We Wouldn't Shoot.

A guardsman the other day was discussing news in a public house in the Edgeware road with two seedy Hyde Park orators.

"Tell us," they asked him, "if one day the downtrodden British workmen were to revolt, would you fire on them?"

"Never!"

"You're one of the right sort. You must have drink with us. Three pints, please."

After they had drunk the soldier's health one of them casually asked:

"How many men like yourself can we count on in your barracks?"

"All the band. They will all act as myself. I play on the big drum, you know," the guardsman quietly remarked as he finished the contents of his glass.—London Answers.

One Too Much For Him.

Professor—Now, you have seen that these experiments can be more successfully performed with perfectly pure water than with any other. Who can tell me how to obtain the purest water known?

Student—Boil it.

Professor—Right. Now, how is water boiled?

Student—By putting it on the fire.

Professor—Right again. Now, how is the fire made?

Student (hesitating)—Er—professor, I'm not a married man.—Strand Magazine.

The Rake On.

"That price includes stateroom and meals, I suppose?" said the prospective ocean tourist to the steamship agent.

"Yes, sir."

"Then what reduction do you make to a man who is seeking all the way across?"—Pearson's Weekly.

The Paris cabbman turns to the right and the London cabby to the left. The former sits always on the box in front of his vehicle. The latter is often perched behind it.

A notary's business, kept up since 1598 from father to son without interruption, is still to be found at St. Savvy, near the Pyrenees.

The Preliminary Step.

The young matrons who were taking a course in housekeeping principally because it was a fad had been listening more or less intently to the lecturer, when the latter startled them by inquiring:

"What is the first thing to be done in training a waitress?"

"Convince her that she is not already trained," promptly answered the one who had had the most experience, and the lecturer said: "Quite right."—Chicago Post.

London Morning Papers.

Proportionately there is no great town in the civilized world that has so few morning papers as London. This is due to the large expenditure involved in starting a paper there. Any one contemplating this must be prepared to lose from $150,000 to $200,000 a year for two or three years and then perhaps to fail.

Misunderstood.

"Now," said the customer, "I want this ring by the 10th. Can I have it on time?"

"No, sir. More than that, the fact that you want time compels me to ask for a deposit before we make the ring."—Detroit Free Press.

Mighty Mice.

The Hindus have a proverb to the effect that women fear mice, mice fear men, and men fear women.

How Hairy Green Squared It.

A year ago I called on Hairy Green to ask about the benefactions of the richest woman in the world. "Do you give to organized charities?" I questioned.

"No, young man," the sharp old woman replied. "I give to private charities only. Some day, when I am rich enough, I shall square it all with the Lord by building a church up country where I was born. This church is now nearly accomplished, that no doubt the Lord acknowledges the 'squareness' of the accounting."—Kansas City Star.

Words That Trouble the Tongue.
Drintheadhwicklichutan is the name of a small hamlet in the Isle of Mull containing not more than a dozen inhabitants. How they pronounce it is a mystery only to be solved by some acquainted with Gaelic, but the fact that the Scots are a nation of few words seems easy to explain if they have many such words as the above in their language.

A sample of Welsh nomenclature is Mynddwylllyn, which is the name of a parish close to Cardiff, while another of the same kind is Llanfairpwllgwyngyll.

Perhaps, however, the Germans may be fairly said to carry off the palm in word coining. How is this for a sample, Constantiopolisherderdelsackpfleifer, or this one, Inggraffenbimmedurchwindschindewoedungs?

The first means a Constantinopolitan bagpipe player, and the last is the name of a young ladies' club which adorns the brass plate of the door of a house in Cologne to this day.

Rubelius gives the following names to a particular book which was supposed to be in the library of Pantagruel's medical student friend Victor, "AntipetrametanaparburgandenterioracionesToordicatum," while Anantachaturavasvataha is an animal Sanscrit word to be found in any Sanscrit dictionary, and the word Chummetardiyadesha occurs in the works of Plautus, the Latin comedy writer.—Harper's Round Table.

HOW WEARY IS OUR HEART!

O kings and courts, of kingly, courtly ways
In which the life of man is bought and sold,
How weary is our heart these many days!

Of ceremonious embassies that hold,
Parley with hell in fine and silken phrase,
How weary is our heart these many days!

Of wavering consuls neither hot nor cold,
Wom from his mouth God speweth to, it told,
How weary is our heart these many days!

Ye, for the ravelled night is round the lands,
And sick are we of all the imperial story,
The tramp of power and its long trail of pain;
The mighty brows in meanest arts grown honest;

The mighty hands

That in the dear, affronted name of peace
Bind down a people to be racked and slain;

The emulous armies, waxing without cause,
All pusilliant, all in vain;

The parts and leagues to murder by delays,
And the dumb throngs that on the deaf thrones

gaze;

The common, loveless lust of territory,

The lips that only bubble of their mark,

While to the night the shrieking hawks blare;

He bought allegiance and the purchased praise;

False honor and shameful glory—

Of all the evil wherewith this is part;

How weary is our heart these many days!

—William Watson.

LEADING HEARTS.

"A disappointment connected with something near your heart, and let me see!"

She turned the cards up meditatively on the shining oak table and put her hands to her head in a pretty affectation of wisdom.

"That means love," laying her finger on the five of hearts, "eternal love—the love of some woman. It looks like an old friend, and she runs in hearts, I think. Yes, she is quite light. Can you place her?"

"As far as the coloring goes," he laughed. "I know my number of light women—yourself for instance."

"Oh, I'm not in it! My hair is too yellow. This one is more of the demiblond; something like Miss Maitland—bronze hair and blue eyes."

"My dear girl, Miss Maitland isn't a blond at all. If you can't do better than that for me, I'll throw up the whole concern."

She smiled and ran off a few more cards, counting every third one in quite a professional manner.

"Well, if it's not Miss Maitland," shaking her head, "you will have to fill in the name yourself. There is the ace of spades. That's bad luck and a death card, and one may infer that the Church of England is an expensive institution, representing a very high average of cost for each soul brought to grace.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Discussion Settled by a Woman.

About 5 o'clock in the afternoon of a muggy day the thin man left the Rookery building and started south on the east side of Lasalle street. The sidewalk in front of a new building was nearly ankle deep with mud. Planks had been laid across the area of black paste. The thin man reached one of these planks just as a fat man who was coming from the direction of the board of trade stepped on the other end. Each of the men walked with his head down. They met squarely in the middle of the plank, and each waited for the other to step aside and let him pass.

"Excuse me, sir," said the fat man as he made a move to go ahead.

"Be careful, sir," said the thin man.

He grabbed the fat man's arm to save himself from being pushed off into the mud, "or I'll fall off."

"Well, don't hold on to me," said the fat man, frowning, "or I'll fall off myself."

STOP THE INDUSTRIALS NOW.

The Sacramento Bee sounds the alarm of the approaching army of unemployed and insists that Sacramento's authorities should not permit San Francisco, Oakland and Stockton to make that city the dumping grounds for their idle and impudent population.

It says: "The time for action is now, and that these marching hundreds have no object in visiting Sacramento, unless it is to terrorize her citizens into giving them money. They are simply emulating that other band of 'Industrials' who forced the authorities to give them several hundred dollars."

It is recommended that the army be met at the outer edge of the city and warned not to enter, under pain of immediate arrest for vagrancy and punishment.

It is not suggested however, what is to be done with these men if they are not permitted to enter the city and it is quite probable that Sacramento will do as well as she did with the other army of Industrials "push it along" and allow the smaller towns in the mountains and along the railroads which do not have the facilities of handling them do the best they can.

It will be remembered that Reno had an experience of this kind a couple of years ago and was compelled under the circumstances to emulate her older and more prosperous California sister, by pushing the gang along. It was the only thing to be done with the two hundred individuals that came in the night. If Sacramento wants to do the proper thing, let steps be taken to turn this wave of prosperity back to the cities from whence it came and not let it roll over the mountains to spread abroad and inundate small Nevada towns which are not able under the best of circumstances to cope with the horde.

Besides it is next to a crime to allow these people to come over the mountains and take chances of working their way east from this point. Poorly clad and half starved, with a stretch of desert before them of hundreds of miles, and few settlements, they necessarily become desperate, commit crime, and more or less die from exposure. It could not be much worse if they were loaded on some old hulk, the hatchways battened down and the bulk scuttled and sunk in the Pacific.

If Sacramento wants to act in a humane manner, turn the army back towards the coast or to the cities from where it originated.

THE TURK-GRECIAN WAR.

Plucky little Greece is holding its own in its unequal contest with the unspeakable Turk. It has been offered assistance from many quarters and if it can maintain its position against the Moslem hordes for a few weeks thousands of volunteers from various parts of the United States will reach its shores to join the army.

The Greeks are patriotic and battalions of them are leaving Boston, New York, Chicago and other cities to join their countrymen in the field. Those who cannot go to the front are contributing liberally to the fund to pay the expenses of the volunteers and those of the latter who can afford to do so are paying their own expenses.

In Europe the principal governments seem to uphold Turkey while the masses of the people deeply sympathize with Greece. Italian war vessels fire upon the insurgents in Crete to protect the Turks, while Italian volunteers have left home to join the Greeks. The governments of France and England keep vessels in the Mediterranean to blockade Crete and prevent Greek ships from supplying the insurgents with arms and ammunition, while the people of England and France are making demonstrations in favor of the Greeks. Thus Europe presents the anomaly of governments in favor of Turkey while the people, who comprise these governments, express the strongest sympathy for Greece. It is reported that Russia, which hates the Turk and is allied with the Greeks at least in religion, is prepared to take a hand in the conflict and if it does so the greater part of Europe may be involved in the war within a few weeks.

LET THEM BE IGNORED.

The Journal notices that the various criticisms published in eastern papers regarding the moral condition of Nevada owing to the enactment of the glove contest law and the subsequent mill at Carson, are being constantly reproduced in our State papers with varying comments. Why not let these "Holy Joes" exhaust their ammunition by having their say? There are only a few of them at most and their opinions fall like a squirt of tobacco juice on a red hot stove, there is only a hiss and that ends it; but if constantly published in our own papers, an idea will eventually prevail that Nevada people are indirectly acknowledging the charges of these pretending straight-laced individuals who are perfectly overcome with an anxiety for our welfare, yet they are of a class that would resort to most any scheme known in the category, to injure a fellowman, if by so doing they could gain a point.

There is a saying, "That it is a pretty good man that minds his own business," and the same will apply to these people who are so shocked at Nevada's course. No one has been killed in the State, as a result of prize fighting, and if these croakers are ignored, they will soon croak themselves out.

HANGED AT SAN QUENTIN.

PHOTOGRAPHIC NOTES.
Frank Kloss, the Murderer of William Duddy, Meets His Doom.
SAN QUENTIN PRISON, April 23.—Frank Cooney Kloss was hanged promptly at 10:30 this morning for the murder of Wm. Duddy over two years ago. Neither the mother or brother of Kloss has been at the prison since yesterday, and the execution was witnessed only by the prison officials, physicians and newspaper men. As Kloss had boasted, he died game for his brutal and cowardly murder of his victim. He was cool to the last. Death was almost instantaneous.

At 20 minutes past 10 Warden Hale went to his cell to read the death warrant. The prisoner was talking to Father Langau, his spiritual advisor, and at the same time smoking a cigarette. He told Warden Hale not to read the warrant. The Warden asked him if he wished the reading. He answered that he did. The guards at once strapped Kloss' hands to his sides and put a leather belt about his ankles.

Fathers Langau and Egan stood one on each side of him, the guards grouped themselves about, and the march to the gallows was begun. The priests chanted the prayers for the dying. All action in the body ceased at the end of 12 minutes. A second after the trap opened Kloss was insensible and practically dead. The physicians, all of whom had attended the previous executions at the prison, are unanimous that this was the most successful hanging of the series. There have been in all fourteen executions at San Quentin.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The desk of the late Judge Holman to-day was covered with the black pall of mourning, upon which were strewn lilies of the valley and hyacinths.

Immediately after the reading of the journal Bland offered a resolution relative to the suits to foreclose the first mortgage on the Union Pacific Railway and calling on the Attorney General for information as to what steps had been taken to protect the interests of the Government, so modified as to strike out the clause directing the Speaker to appoint immediately a Committee on Pacific Railroads.

The House adopted a resolution for the appointment of a committee of members, with the Speaker as Chairman, to attend the Grant tomb exercises next Tuesday. The House also asked three days' adjournment next week, with the understanding that no business will be transacted.

Representative McGuire of California today introduced a resolution in the House declaring the war between Turkey and Greece was a war between Moslem and Christian civilization, and directing that the sympathy of the United States be extended to Greece, with the hope that her struggle may be successful. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, but as that committee is not appointed no action will be taken at present.

Representative Dorr of West Virginia to-day introduced a bill to repeal the civil service law.

The Greco-Turkish War.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 23.—On the receipt of the news of the Turkish defeat in Greece, Osman Pasha, the old hero of the Turkish defense at Pleven, left Constantinople to assume charge of the Turkish army in the field. This is regarded as significant of some change of plan on the part of the Turks.

This afternoon an additional force of Dervishes or army reserves have been called out to reinforce the Turkish troops operating against the Greeks. These reserves number 50,000 men.

ATHENS, April 23.—Fighting occurred in the olive groves near Preveza between the Turks and native Christians. The Greek forces while on the way to Filippia, passed a number of charred corpses. The inhabitants of Dakia and Hamarin have risen against the Greeks and welcomed the Turks with enthusiasm.

After the bombardment of Katrina on the Gulf of Salonica by the Greek squadron had put to flight two battalions of Turks and the inhabitants of that place, the Greek fleet landed a detachment and found that the Turks had left behind immense stores of provisions destined for the armies of Edhem Pasha. These valuable stores have been left unprotected in the belief by the Turks that the blockade of Greece by the Powers would prevent the Greek fleet from attacking the Turkish towns on the Gulf of Salonica, which is near the railroad to Salonica and which has been used as a point to land stores for the Turkish army and forward them to the front.

The "Industrials" En-route.

STOCKTON, Cal., April 23.—The two hundred and seventy men who were sent to this city by Mayor Puelan of San Francisco, enroute for the East, have reached Lodi. They got tired walking and have refused to proceed further. Last night they tried to take possession of a freight train for Sacramento, but were frustrated by the railroad people, who had the train steam by without stopping. This morning they were more successful.

They embarked upon the freight which was to have pulled out at 9:30. Some got on top of the cars and others hung on to the sides. The trainmen, acting under the instructions of the agent, refused to take the train out. The unemployed refused to get off the cars. The local authorities were invoked, but there were only two constables and they could do nothing with the men. The train is still there and the men also firm in their determination. They say that they will stay there all summer. They have been begging in the town and practically own the village.

Kid Thompson, convicted of train robbery, was sentenced at Los Angeles yesterday to life imprisonment.

The present visit of the squadron of eight British warships to Douglas is intended to frustrate the intrigues of Germany, Portugal and the Transvaal.

An army officer sent from Fort Snelling, Minn., to the Red river section of North Dakota reports twenty families comprising 105 people, destitute and in need of immediate relief.

Wheat advanced at San Francisco yesterday 9 cents per cent, occasioned by weather bulletins of hot winds and scarcity of rain.

Frank R. Hadley, ex-Treasurer of the Benét and Columbian Mills, died at New Bedford, Mass., yesterday morning. He was charged with perjury and warrants for his arrest had been issued.

A Tornado in Kansas.
NEWTON, Kas., April 23.—The small tornado which passed one mile west of here last night wrecked several houses, injuring three occupants. It killed many cattle, uprooted orchards and groves and smashed thousands of panes of glass.

WHAT THE YOUTH NEEDED
The Order Was Given by the Man Whom He Made Tired.

Now and then Chicago draws a chapie in the great shuffle of life. The other day one arrived here from an inland town who had a few points to spare in his trunk.

He took up his residence in an aristocratic family hotel, where he appeared religiously each night at a 7 o'clock dinner in the evening dress of a second class swell. This was all very commendable and cleanly, and not at all extraordinary where 80 per cent of the men did the same thing.

But the good impression awakened by the chastity of the newcomer's appearance in the ineffable bosom and tie was obscured by his attempt to order his dinner as much French as he deemed would be intelligible. The sonority of his final order for a demitasse was good for all the surrounding tables, not for the butler's pantry.

As the first week rolled on the young man grew more Frenchy, more mellow, more metropolitan in spirit, and on the occasion of his first evening at home made his way to the smoking room, where he arranged himself languorously and picturesquely in an easy chair.

Near him was the station of a small colored buttons.

"Garcon! Garcon!" called out the oriental one, but little William stood, with his heavy, sealike eyes rolled upward and his great paws crossed solemnly over his brass buttoned jacket, regardless and heedless of the overwhelming honor being done him.

"I say, there, garcon, won't you bring me—ah!"

"Some brains, William, for this chap," growled an apoplectic man on the other side of the room.—Chicago Tribune.

They Do Not Mind the Pennies.

Experience has made the man of the fruit stands overcautious in handling coin above the size of a 10 cent piece. The larger pieces they will test upon the pavement or sink their teeth into in a tentative fashion. It is to be noted, however, that whenever a customer makes a penny purchase they pocket his change without scanning it—almost hasty indeed. There is deep reason in this procedure.

For one thing, nobody counterfeits the cent piece; it is too cheap. For another thing, the fruit dealer knows that no coin of smaller denomination is passing into his hands. For a third thing, and this is the most important, there is always a chance that the customer makes a penny purchase they pocket his change without scanning it—almost hasty indeed. There is deep reason in this procedure.

This afternoon an additional force of Dervishes or army reserves have been called out to reinforce the Turkish troops operating against the Greeks. These reserves number 50,000 men.

ATHENS, April 23.—Fighting occurred in the olive groves near Preveza between the Turks and native Christians. The Greek forces while on the way to Filippia, passed a number of charred corpses. THE UNIVERSITY EXERCISES.

CORONAS VS. CARSON CHAMPIONS.

Arbor Day Properly Observed.

In accordance with prearranged plans the program of Arbor Day exercises at the University were carried out to the letter. Early in the day visitors began to assemble on the campus and it was evident from the bustle and hurrying to and fro of the students that something of more than an ordinary nature was in progress.

The University Band opened the exercises with a selection which was rendered in an artistic manner. President Stubbs' address in calling the assemblage to order was impressive and appropriate to the occasion, referring a he did to the day and the custom that had made the day one of general interest. Harry Start followed in a vocal solo well rendered and fully appreciated. Hon. E. R. Dodge, a member of the Board of Visitors, was introduced as the orator of the day. He told of how Arbor Day was first recognized as a day to be observed; how by degrees the customs and exercises connected with it had spread until it was finally recognized as a general holiday and by anecdote and historical reference impressed his audience with its importance. His address was brimming full of interesting and instructive matter and every word was carefully listened to during his talk.

Miss Maud Haines then pleased the audience with a vocal selection, which was indeed beautiful and showed her to be a vocalist of merit. R. M. Brambilla in a neat speech christened the tree "Popular Jackson" and the young man's remarks and the hearty approval of the students showed that the professor has a warm place in their hearts. Professor Jackson responded in a feeling manner, expressing his appreciation of the honor and said that a tree on the University campus representing the regard that the students held him in would be prized more by him than a marble column erected to his memory by other hands. The band played a selection and the audience was dismissed by the President.

At about 4 o'clock the Carson team returned home well pleased from a social standpoint with their visit, and while regretting the loss of the game took their defeat good naturally. The Coronas are quite proud of their victory, as the Carson players are nearly all old hands, while the Corona boys are comparatively new at the business.

Department of California and Nevada G. A. U.

The first session of the thirty-first annual encampment of the Department of California and Nevada G. A. R., was held at Salinas and was a jolly and social gathering of the old veterans. After the usual preliminaries of opening the session were concluded, the accounts and books were inspected and audited.

The reports show that there are 3,450 comrades in good standing, a loss of thirty-six during the year. The total number of posts in good standing are 113. The finances are in good condition. The medical director reports fifty-three deaths during the year within the department, but 242 deaths among soldiers.

T. N. Goulding, a member of Lincoln Post No. 1, of San Francisco, died suddenly while attending the meeting, which cast a gloom over the festivities. He had been advised by his physician that the trip and excitement would be too much for him, but he insisted upon attending. He was widely known and very popular in Grand Army circles.

Uncle Sam's Old Lumber. Deputy U. S. Marshal Ferguson arrested Thomas McDermott, Lee Scranton, James Murphy and E. C. Murphy on the 21st on a charge of stealing old lumber from the Government building at Fort Halleck. The complaint was made by W. H. Cotant, who is in charge of the property. The defendants were brought to town yesterday and will have their examinations tomorrow before U. S. Commissioner Henry Jones arrives to conduct it.

The defendants all reside near the Fort and have resided there for years. They all stand well in the county and hitherto born excellent reputations.

Mr. McDermott told the reporter this afternoon that the lumber they were accused of stealing had been in use at the Fort since the fall of 1867.—Elko Independent.

Rev. John Burgess, Keokuk, Iowa, writes: "I have been a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church for 50 years or more, and have never found any thing so beneficial, or that gave such a speedy relief as Dr. King's New Discovery." Try this Ideal Cough Remedy now. Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

At the Public Schools. Arbor Day exercises were held by the primary departments of the public schools yesterday afternoon. There was a good attendance of friends and patrons of the school, and all enjoyed the songs, recitations and dialogues of the little folks. At the conclusion of the school exercises some of the visitors entertained the children with appropriate remarks.

An Enjoyable Evening. Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Smith entertained the members of the Nevada Club last night in royal style. The regular Friday night social was given, and in accordance with the Club rule, it was their turn and nothing was left undone to make it an enjoyable evening for all. The members turned out in goodly numbers.

BREVITIES.

Spirited and Well Contested Game.

The ball match between the Coronas of Reno and the Champions of Carson took place at the University grounds yesterday afternoon. There was a goodly crowd of spectators present and considerable interest was manifested.

Game was called at 1:30 p.m., with the Champions at the bat. Carson made one run and surrendered the bat to the Coronas, who had three to their credit and went out. In the next two innings the Carson boys failed to score while the Renoites were rapidly extending their string. Thus the game continued until the first half of the ninth inning, when the Reno boys became too confident or rattled and the Carsonites gained five tallies through faulty playing of the Coronas. The game ended in the score of 12 to 17 in favor of the Coronas. The latter played a good game until the last inning, when they became careless. Stoddard did fine work catching and played a wonderful game. Pagnello's delivery of the ball was a surprise to the Carson boys, and Everett on 1st, Frazer on 2d and Stoddard on 3d base, also Finlaysou as short-stop, acquitted themselves admirably. The fielders, Messrs. Kornmayer, McCarran and Radcliffe, were up to the standard and never missed a trick.

The Carson team played earnestly and well and put up a good game from beginning to end, and although defeated had the satisfaction of knowing that they were beaten by worthy competitors.

At about 4 o'clock the Carson team returned home well pleased from a social standpoint with their visit, and while regretting the loss of the game took their defeat good naturally. The Coronas are quite proud of their victory, as the Carson players are nearly all old hands, while the Corona boys are comparatively new at the business.
